CENSUS MARSHAL'S REPORT.

To the Honorable the Board of Education of the Town of Berkeley:

Gentlemen—Herewith I hand you the returns of the school census taken for the Berkeley school district for the fiscal year 1896.

It affords much pleasure to say that there has been found a material increase over the figures reported one year ago. This increase in the number of children of school age is not a positive indication of general growth in the town, for there are facts which suggest that it may be a negative one. Many large families are growing up, so that every year carries many children over the line, and this progression is not altogether compensated for by the growing out at the other end.

Of course there are new comers, but on the other hand there have been observed many indications of out goers. In some sections of the town are many vacant houses, and in these localities very few new ones are seen.

It is to be deplored that the growth of Berkeley is sectional. My report this year does not give you the figures apportioned to wards, as the plan upon which I am now working for a permanent record suggests marking of the territory into several arbitrary divisions with convenient boundary lines so arranged as to indicate nearly equal present numbers and correspondingly prospective growth.

It can be said, however, that all of the wards, excepting one, show larger figures than in last year's report. The exception is the Third ward or center section of the town. From a limited comparison of figures and names it is seen that this variation is explained by the fact of the moving out from the center of several families, and the fact that many of the older families reside there whose children are passing over the seventeen year limit.

The indexed record book, when completed will more precisely show these contracts and serve as a basis for and an aid to the taking and explaining of future statistics.

In connection with the figures of the children there have been taken this year the figures of the adult population so that a fair estimate can be had of the entire population of the town and district.

The total of figures is as follows:

Total number of boys	1,367
Total number of girls	1,357
Grand total boys and girls	2,724
No. attending public schools	2,015
No. attending private schools	196
No. not attending school	513
No. under 5 years of age	1,238
Total No. of children	3,962
Natives of the United States	3,826
Natives of foreign countries	136
Total number of adults	7,673
Total populat'n of sch. dist	11,635
Town of Berkeley:
Adults	7,414
Boys	1,318
Girls	1,307
Under 5 years of age	1,181
Total	11,220
Lorin:
Adults	182
Boys	37
Girls	42
Under 5 years of age	43
Total	304
Ocean View:
Adults	77

Total	111

Respectfully submitted,

J. L. SCOTCHLER,
Census Marshal.

Mr. Scotchler called the attention of the Board to the fact that that his report was in, and he was entitled to his pay, and asked the Board to pass upon his bill to-night.

Director Engelbretzen, in behalf of the Finance Committee, reported in favor of paying the Census Marshal $132, and $10 for the use of a horse and buggy.

Director Norton said: "If I am correctly informed, the city of Oakland only pays one man $6 per day."

Mr. Scotchler replied that he thought the work none too much paid for at $6 per day.

Director Norton made a motion that the report of the Finance Committee be accepted, and warrants drawn for the same. Passed.

The bill of Mr. Biddle for $15 was voted upon, and a tie vote resulting, the matter was laid over until the next meeting, upon motion of Director Niehaus.

Principal Waterman asked to have 3000 promotion cards printed; granted.

Applicants for positions in the school department: Ida M. Ayers, Blanch Morse, Helen Thayer, M. F. Love, Mrs. Olive Wilson, Mabel E. Palmer, Lillian C. Rotger, Delphine C. Larsen, R. C. Story.

In Favor of the Amendment.

At a regular meeting of the Carpenter's Union of Berkeley held last evening the following resolution was unanimously adopted.

Whereas, large federations of labor have lately placed themselves in the front rank of progressive organizations by passing resolutions endorsing worthy woman's aspiration to become a political factor, and

Whereas, We, as a kindred body of workingmen, believe in advancing with our fellow unionists into the light of the new day whose dawn holds promise of equality throughout the world, feel it incumbent to so proclaim, therefore be it

Resolved, That we collectively bid our fair sisters success in their endeavors to purge from our statute that ridiculous relic of past assumption, the word "male." The presence of which has heretofore disfranchised the moral half of humanity.

PROF. BACON'S ROAST

He Says That the University Students

WHENEVER ANYTHING IS UNDERTAKEN FOR

The University, Shun It as If It Were the Small-pox.

Failed to Support a Play.

Professor Thomas R. Bacon, head of the Department of History at the State University, is disgusted with the lack of college spirit and patriotism of the students under him. The Professor says that when anything is undertaken for the benefit of the University, the students shun it as if it were the smallpox.

Professor Bacon is disappointed at the failure of the students to turn out in large numbers and support the recent production of "Love for Love," by Professor Syle's class in English, and he does not mince words in expressing his sentiments.

Professor Bacon was asked by the editor of the University magazine to write a memorial of the revival of Congrave's play. He consented, and after warm commendation of Professor Syle's efforts in adapting the play to the modern stage, and of the talent displayed by the student actors and actresses who took part in the production, sailed into the collegians for remaining away from the performance.

"At the three performances of 'Love for Love,' which were given before large audiences," he said, "students of the University of California were conspicuous by their absence. The performance was beautifully given by students; instructors spent time they could ill afford in making it successful; the proceeds of the entertainment went to causes supposedly dear to the student heart and the audiences were made up of the professors and their families and of citizens of Berkeley and San Francisco, who have no part or lot in the matter but who like a good thing.

"Whenever anything is undertaken for the benefit of the University the students shun it as if it were the smallpox."

Professor Bacon says that his "roast" of the students in the magazine is sufficient and that he has nothing more to say. His attitude in the matter is said to have arisen from a long list of like occurrences.

The Oakland.

"The Estate of Hannibal Howe," a remarkable bright play by Judson Brussie Esq., of Sacramento, was staged last night at The Oakland by Manager Bacon. It is a realistic story of New England life, something on the style of "The Old Homestead," and has always drawn big houses wherever presented. There are many opportunities for good stage setting and scenic effects, and these have been all thoroughly attended to. Altogether the show promises to make the record of The Oakland a big one during the week.

Golden Gate.

The honorary scholars of the Bay District schools had a picnic on Grizzly Peak yesterday. Those attending were: Miss N. Storm, Vic Cedley, Fred Storm, Emily Furcate, Hortense Chichester, Nellie Hogan, Ada Rhyan and George Robinson. They enjoyed themselves immensely wandering over the hills, gathering flowers and seeking the shade where a bounteous lunch was spread. The recent north winds had cleared the atmosphere so that the unobscured view was one that could only be obtained in Berkeley.

On Friday, May 22, 1896, there is going to be a musical entertainment for the benefit of the church music fund of the Golden Gate Methodist Episcopal Church. A Japanese high tea with Mikado selections in costume, by the choir, under the direction of Mrs. Charles Folger, soprano, will be one of the distinctive features of the evening.

Elizabeth U. Yates will speak at the Women's Mass Meeting on Wednesday evening.

Personals.

There was a little children's party held yesterday afternoon at Mrs. Davenports, 2749 Dwight way.

Mrs. John Finn of North Berkeley entertained last evening at her residence, 1300 Shattuck avenue.

A telegram was received here last evening from Chili announcing the marriage of George Gompertz, a son of Professor Gompertz, of the U. C. to a lady of that country. A surprise to his friends.

The Forum of the Berkeley High School held a meeting yesterday and arranged to have a meeting on June 5th and also arranged an elaborate program for the graduating exercises. The Forum sat for its photograph which will be reproduced in the class edition of the Olla Podrida. The remainder of the exercises of the graduating week are being rapidly perfected. The Senior Class will hold their annual picnic at Orinda Park, on the line of the California and Nevada railroad on Friday next.

Votes for the Most Popular Teacher Coming in by the Hundreds.

Its Humming Today

As the time draws near for the awarding the prize to the most popular school teacher, the interest taken by the scholars and friends is becoming more manifest, and they are sending in subscriptions and coupons by the wholesale.

Tomorrow we shall place upon exhibition the elegant hat from the Bonnet Box Millinery store of Oakland, which is to be given as the second prize. It is a magnificent creation of the milliner's art and a prize that any lady would like to win. There is nothing cheap nor shoddy about it, as any lady can see by examining it.

It will be placed in Hamlin's dry-good store window on Shattuck avenue near Center street, where all may have a chance to view it.

Remember that you can easily get your favorite to the head of the list by securing a few yearly subscribers to the GAZETTE. Each yearly subscription paid in advance entitles your favorite to 500 votes, and they count up very fast.

The two leaders in the contest are very close and their friends are working earnestly for them, and the fight will be very interesting from now until the first of June.

WANT BETTER ROADS

The Board of Supervisors are Petitioned

TO MACADAMIZE SHATTUCK AVENUE

And Adeline Streets From the Berkeley Limits to the Oakland Limits.

Producers to Exhibit.

The Board of Supervisors met yesterday and granted permission to the Board of Trade to occupy a room in the Hall of Records for the purpose of exhibiting products of the local merchants and manufacturers. The movement is intended to stimulate competition and advertise the county.

The Supervisors then listened to a petition from the suburban residents whose homes lie between Oakland and Berkeley, which reads as follows:

Your petitioners respectfully state that there are now no convenient and direct macadamized roads between East Berkeley and Oakland, that there is a large traffic between those points and that a large number of private vehicles also pass between.

That by reason of the heavy traffic the present roads between those points are rendered almost impassable during the rainy season and cannot be maintained in a good and passable condition at any time without being macadamized.

Wherefore your petitioners pray that your honorable Board cause Shattuck avenue and Adeline street to be macadamized from the southern boundary of the town of Berkeley to the northern boundary of the city of Oakland.

The petition was filed, as there is no money at present in the district for such use.

Plumbers' Union Blamed.

Richard Chalnor of Lorin has attacked the Plumbers' Union on peculiar grounds. Chalnor is a plumber and was recently arrested by the sanitary inspector for not filing a bond in accordance with the ordinance. He claims that he broke a rule of the union by putting in work where the material had been purchased of wholesale houses, and an effort had been made by the order to learn the name of the party who did the selling. This it had failed to do, he alleges, so it had reported him to the inspector.

Judge Wood has withheld the decision. The inspector corroborates Chalnor's statements.

The Correct Thing.

The Oakland Board of Trade were successful yesterday in obtaining permission from the Board of Supervisors for the purpose of making a permanent exhibit of the products and manufactures of the county of Alameda.

Visitors coming to California want to see as much of the State and its products in the shortest possible time. It would take too long to visit all the sections of every county in the State, which would generally have to be done to get a view of that which was really choice.

By concentrations specimens of the earth products and handiwork at the county seat, many would be enabled to see the different capacities of each county without having to go over much ground. Another thing, the best of everything would not come in contact with the inferior. In fact, in these exhibits each section of the State would be at its best, and thousands coming here to realize what they had heard of the country would have their desires gratified, where but few do when the articles are not concentrated in some easily approached public place.

Oakland is commencing to do now what San Francisco has done for a long time. The latter city, however, has the benefit of having a State institution within its borders. Alameda is a county that is proper to take the lead in a matter of this kind, and it will do, with the aid of the press, an immense amount of good, to not only the State, but the county, and as follows the city of Oakland.

MAY COME WEST.

The Next Convention of the American Science Association.

Choice for a Convention.

The next convention of the American Science Association may be held in San Francisco. Professor Le Conte of the University of California, who leaves next month for the East to attend this year's convention, states that many members have assured him of their willingness to come West, and that in all probability San Francisco willl be chosen for the convention of 1897.

"It all depends on the railroads," said Professor Le Conte, "and I do not doubt that concessions can be secured which will bring the convention to California."

The British Science Association, which meets in Canada, may also come West and hold joint sessions with the American society.

Democratic Primaries.

The Democrats of Alameda county are making the detailed arrangements for their primaries on June 5th, when delegates to the State Convention will be elected. There will not be another meeting of the committee as a body, the minor arrangements having been left in the hands of the President, Secretary and the Ward and Township Committeemen.

The elections will be by club primaries in the city of Oakland, and by open primary elections in the townships outside of the cities.

The club rolls will be open from Friday May 22d, until June 1st, at 9 p. m. One roll will be opened in each ward in Oakland.

The primary will be held on the evening of June 5th, from 7 to 10 p. m. The ward committeemen will select polling places later, and will then have charge of the primaries.

Outside of the city of Oakland the Township Committeemen will have charge of the election.

There will be a very bitter fight, and the vote promises to be a big one.

The Democrats of this county are already beginning to figure upon the possibility of securing a Congressman from this district, in view of the split in Republican ranks.

HE SHOT THE MATE

John Farley Got Tired of Brutal Treatment

AND FIRED TWO SHOTS INTO THE BODY

Of the Mate of the British Ship Rosse, From Brazil, and He Will Die.

Shot the Mate.

New York, May 19—John Farley, second officer of the British steamer Resse, was shot and dangerously wounded yesterday by Ernest Smith, a sailor whom he had attacked. The vessel was lying at Martin's stores, Brooklyn.

Farley is in a critical condition at the City Hospital. There are two bullet wounds in his chest, but he may recover, as he is a man of iron constitution.

The vessel sailed from England last February. Smith, a little, spare Jerseyman, was one of the crew. Farley struck him one day while the Rosse was in a Brazilian port. Smith said nothing to the officer, but he told one of his shipmates that if the man ever raised a hand to him again he would have revenge.

The vessel reached Brooklyn Sunday. When the crew began to prepare for the discharge of the cargo Farley, it is alleged, began to make matters disagreeable for them. He punched a man named Theodore Evans for questioning an order. A few minutes later Farley ordered Smith to do something. The sailor, who had armed himself in anticipation of trouble, started to obey, but had not moved fast enough to suit the second officer. The latter made a remark which Smith construed as a threat.

Turning around Smith said: "Remember you are in the United States, not Brazil." Farley doubled his fist and struck the sailor a blow that felled him to the deck. Smith arose, drew his revolver and fired twice at the mate, hitting him each time. Both bullets pierced the man's breast and he fell to the deck. He was removed to the City Hospital.

Smith waited until an officer boarded the vessel and arrested him. Evans and four other sailors were arrested as witnesses.

Big Floods.

St. Louis, May 19—During the past thirty-six hours Missouri has been visited by the heaviest downpour of continuous rain in many years. A water spout struck Basworth, Mo., last evening, and the streets were flooded and neighboring farms inundated. The country for miles is a sheet of water, but the people sought higher grounds and no loss of life is reported.

Near Osceola the Osage and Sac rivers overflowed and people are deserting the homes. The entire Locust valley surrounding Milan, Mo., is under water. Much stock perished, trains are stopped and bridges wrecked.

Y. M. I. at Haywards.

The Town of Haywards appears to be covered with bunting and ribbons. The occasion is the annual meeting of the Grand Council of the Young Men's Institute. An arch has been erected on B street, through which the procession will pass. During the week the town will be filled with visitors from all parts of the State.

A grand ball will be given this evening, which will probably be one of the grandest affairs of the kind given this season. The attendance will be very large.

At the last accounts there had been 850 delegates elected to the St. Louis convention. Of these, 508 have been either pledged or instructed to vote for McKinley. The New York Tribune gives Reed 95 votes; Morton, 62 votes; Quay, 56; Allison, 41; Bradley, 16; Cullen 12; and class 50 as doubtful. Into this doubtful list it puts 10 delegates from Maryland; 6 Kentucky; 5 from Utah, 4 from Virginia; 6 from Arizona; 6 from New Mexico; and 2 from South Carolina. This will give 338 votes to the field, and omitting all the contested seats, 398 to McKinley.

CENSUS MARSHAL'S REPORT.

School Census Marshal Scotchler made his report to the Board of Education last evening, and while his enumeration of the school children is probably correct, we think that he is away off on the population of Berkeley as he has returned it.

According to Mr. Scotchler's figures the population of Berkeley numbers 11,635. We think he has made a mistake of at least 3,000 in his figures for Berkeley's population, as according to the registration it is nearer 15,000 than it is 11,000.

In the Lorin district Mr. Scotchler gives the total number of adults as 182, while the last Great Register gives Lorin 300 voters, which would mean at least 1,200 people in Lorin.

There is no sure way while taking the school census to get at the adult population, and it should not be attempted; for when the incomplete report is made public it does the town harm.

The usual calculation upon the cost of taking the school census in other towns and cities is about five cents per name. In Berkeley this year the cost has been almost ten cents, and this when the money could be illy spared from the school funds, and Berkeley will have to go on record as the only town in the State that hired a horse and buggy for the Census Marshal independent of the amount that it was paying him for doing the work.

It might be well for the Board in the future to have a distinct understanding with the Census Marshal that when it provided him an assistant, he should do the work without hiring other assistants, and a horse and buggy and then sending the bill into the Board. The work has been done heretofore by two men, and they did not ask the Board to pay for carriage hire, either. The money has been paid in this instance, however, and, it is now too late to complain, but it is not too late to ask the Board to look out for any more such extra expense in taking the school census in the future.

FOR CONGRESSMAN.

The Democrats of this Congressional District are in high glee over the fact that there is a split in the ranks of the Republican party in Alameda county and they hope thereby to elect a Democratic Congressman this fall. The genuine Republicans who are mixed up with the so called Straight Republicans are now hedging, and the chances that they will harmonize with the Regular Republicans and thereby prevent any split in the party, and stop any chance of a Democrat representing this district in Congress.

Of course Nonpartisans like Pardee, Pierce, Aldrich and others who want to rule or ruin, will not be willing to harmonize, but as their votes for Republican nominees are very uncertain anyhow, they can very well be spared, and counted as belonging to the enemy.

Pierce and Aldrich, upon failing to receive Republican nominations at the last general election went at once before the Nonpartisan convention, and received the coveted nominations, but when the votes were counted they were snowed under so deep that they could not be found, and in fact they only made their reappearance a few weeks ago, when they found that another election was close at hand. Knowing that their past records would preclude their having any part in the councils of the party, they at once got up an opposition composed of a few Republicans, a lot of Nonpartisans and a few Democrats, and called for primaries at which none except their own votes were cast, and elected themselves as delegates to Sacramento, against the regularly appointed delegates of the Republican Party of Alameda county.

Arriving at Sacramento, the Southern California delegation saw that they could be used to defeat the wishes of the people of their own home and they were recognized as delegates for about two hours, and came back to Oakland in high feather. Southern California had used them, however, and had no further use for them, so Chairman Arthur quietly cast them overboard and recognized the regular delegates from Alameda, and named one of them as the member of the State Central Committee from Alameda county.

The real Republicans that were connected with the rule or ruin men of the Pierce, Pardee, Aldrich faction, have now found that they are in bad company, and they will now flock to the regular Republican standard and leave the manipulators named above, out in the cold.

THEODORE GIER.

Theodore Gier is known as one of the most progressive men in California, and especially in Alameda county. In Oakland there is no movement undertaken for the advancement of the city that he does not take hold of, giving both his time and his money. His latest venture has been to purchase the Cresta Blanca vineyard, at Livermore, from Clarence A. Wetmore. This vineyard has obtained a high reputation for its products, its wines having taken prizes in all the large expositions in the United States and Europe, and under Mr. Gier's management it will become far more famous, and its products will be wanted from one end of the world to the other, thus giving Alameda county an advertisement that will be worth thousands of dollars. While we are writing about Mr. Gier, it might be well enough to state that a great many of his friends are talking of sending him to the Legislature this fall. If Mr. Gier could be prevailed upon to run for this important office we know of no better man in Alameda county, and we know that his popularity with all classes in his district would cause him to be elected by a large and pleasing majority.

THE WILMERDING SCHOOL.

The Board of Regents are in session this afternoon, and the question of locating the Wilmerding school will probably be decided. San Francisco, Oakland, Stockton and Berkeley are the contestants. Stockton has no real claim for the school, as it is too far away from the University. San Francisco has two schools of the same kind notably the Lick and the Coggswell. Oakland might have a little claim upon it, because it is within four miles of the University. Berkeley is entitled to the school for two reasons, first because the University proper is located in Berkeley, and the school would be under the personal supervision of President Kellogg; second because the Hon. F. K. Shattuck has offered the finest site of any that have been mentioned, that is close to three lines of railroad and thus easily reached, and thirdly because it is within that limit where the students are protected from any contaminating influences.

There is no doubt but what Mr. Wilmerding intended that the school should be located in Berkeley, and it is hoped that his wishes in the matter will be respected.

Stockton, Oakland, and San Francisco have committees present to urge their claims, but Berkeley seems to be apathetic and will take it if it comes and if it does not, all right. It is hoped, however, that the Board of Regents will award the school to Berkeley, and not scatter the State University and its adjuncts all over the county.

KING OF TIGRE.

King of Tigre, comrade true,
Where in all thine isles art thou?
Sailing on Panama's blue?
Wearing Amapala now?
King of Tigre, where art thou?

Bat'ling for Antilles' queen?
Saber hilt or olive bough?
Crown of dust or laurel green?
Having love or marriage vow?
King and comrade, where art thou?

Sailing on Pacific seas?
Pitching tents in Pima now?
Underneath magnolia trees?
Thatch of palm or cedar bough?
Soldier singer, where art thou?

Coasting on the Oregon?
Saddle bow or birchen prow?
Round the isles of Amazon?
Pampas, plain or mountain brow?
Prince of rovers, where art thou?

Answer me from out the west!
I am weary-stricken now;
Thou art strong, and I would rest;
Reach a hand with lifted brow!
King of Tigre, where art thou?"
—Charles Warren Stoddard.

FANNING'S HEART.

Miss Irwin was very busy. She was handling a difficult assignment which by rights should have been given to one of the men reporters, and so it happened that she remained after every one else had gone to dinner, and for some time the walls of the city editor's room had listened to the unusual sound at such an hour of a bad stub pen scratching over thin brown paper.

Finally the monotonous scratching was interrupted by the opening of a door, and Fanning, the police reporter, hastily entered. Miss Irwin paused in her story long enough to look up.

"Oh," she said, "it's you, Fanning. Been to dinner already?"—

"No, ma'am, not yet. I'm looking for Scranton. Hasn't come back yet, has he?"

"Not yet. Anything I can do for you?"

"No, thanks. I just wanted to see him about a story—that little chap that was hurt. Read about it, didn't you? Scranton's interested. The little chap's dying. I've just come from the house. The doctors all say he'll die tonight, and I wanted to tell Scranton. I am so worried. Pshaw, I'm worried sick. I'"— He paused, ran his fingers through his hair and looked embarrassed.

"Come, now, Fanning, tell me all about it," said the thoroughly interested Miss Irwin.

"There ain't much to tell. Oh, you mean what I'm worrying about? Well, to put the whole thing in a few lines, I'm afraid he might not die in time for me to get my story for the morning's paper. Just think of what I'd lose—such a beautiful story."

Miss Irwin looked shocked, and Fanning saw it. His blue eyes took on a resolute expression, but the muscles of his face did not move, nor did his red cheeks grow the least bit redder. He lit a cigarette and said doggedly:

"Yes, ma'am; so long as he's going to die—they said he won't live through tonight—he might have enough consideration for me to arrange it in time. Just my luck to get scooped." And he knocked off some cigarette ashes.

Miss Irwin gazed at the boy in astonishment.

"Why, you cruel, cruel fellow," she exclaimed, in a disappointed tone; "I didn't think you were that sort."

It was Fanning's turn to look disappointed. "You seem to think, because I talk as I do, that a police reporter hasn't any feelings at all," he said, in an injured way. "Maybe we've got more than you think. Now, there ain't anybody sorrier than I am for that little boy. Why, his mother and sister think I'm the best friend they've got, because if I hadn't said my say, the bully who hurt the little chap wouldn't have been held at all. I fixed him all right enough, though; made things pretty lively at the police court, didn't I? Well, I guess.

"Say, if he would only hurry up and die in time I could write the most elegant and touching story. You just ought to see him. Everybody takes so much interest in him, and folks send him books and toys and jelly and all sorts of good things to eat. When I saw him this evening, the bed was covered with playthings, but if you'll believe it, he didn't seem to care for 'em at all. The only thing he noticed was a bunch of roses somebody had sent him. He wouldn't part with 'em, and when I saw him lying back there with the flowers against his cheek, I thought how pretty it would be for me to have him die with them in his hand. Say, wouldn't that be picturesque? I won't bother you, though, any longer. If you see Scranton, tell him about it; he'll be interested."

The door closed, and Miss Irwin was again alone. She couldn't take up the train of thought she had been pursuing when interrupted, and she still had the shocked look she assumed at the beginning of Fanning's conversation.

"Such a hardened fellow," she muttered, "and yet at heart I really believe him to be what he says he is."

The next morning Miss Irwin scanned the papers, but saw nothing about the boy. The evening papers contained long accounts of his life and death. Miss Irwin felt rather sorry that Fanning, with all his cruel, kind heart, had been scooped. She was sure his account would have surpassed those she had read, and she sighed as she thought of the roses. They had not been mentioned at all.

Several days passed. She was anxious to meet the police reporter. Curiosity got her to wonder what he would say. Finally the chance came. She happened to be waiting for a car when Fanning passed. She stopped him.

"By the way, Fanning, I saw you were cheated out of your story about the little boy."

"Yes, I was. Luck's dead against me."

"What time did he die?"

"Three a. m. exactly. Just too late for me to get in even a line. I was there when he died."

"Poor, dear, little fellow! How did he die?"

"He died on space rates, ma'am."

Miss Irwin thought that she had become used to the reporter's peculiar style, but his reply was too much for her. When she regained her composure, she said:

"I mean, did he know anybody? Was he conscious to the last?"

"Oh, yes. He just opened his eyes; then he shut 'em again, and he opened 'em again and smiled real sweet at his mother and sister and me, and then, and then he—he just died nice, real nice."

"Say," he touched Miss Irwin on the arm and laughed, "what do you suppose? His mother thinks so much of me she asked me to pick out the coffin; said she didn't know what would be appropriate. I selected a little beauty. Say, you ought to have seen him in it."

Miss Irwin was becoming vastly interested in Fanning. He was so different from any one she had ever met before. Then, too, he puzzled her. His conversation was certainly of a "don't care" style, but somehow she couldn't believe him to be as heartless as he seemed. His story about the death of the little boy had affected her greatly; so much so, in fact, that she went to see the sorrow stricken mother.

"Oh," said the mother, between her tears, "you are from The Morning Herald, you say? It is so kind of you to come. My poor little boy thought The Herald was the best paper in town. He often said it. If all the people on The Herald are so good and kind as you and Mr. Fanning"—

"Fanning!"

"Yes, do you know him? I don't know what on earth I would have done in all my trouble if it hadn't been for him. He's got the kindest, most generous heart. 'The Lord loveth a cheerful giver,' but then, Mr. Fanning can afford to give, and"—

"Fanning afford to give!" ejaculated Miss Irwin. "Why"—

"It's a blessed thing to be rich, and to have so much power on a great big paper like The Herald," continued the elder woman. "Of course, if he had been poorer off than he really is, I wouldn't have let him do what he did."

"May I ask what he did?" inquired Miss Irwin.

"Yes, indeed, and I'm only too glad to tell you about it. I believe in mentioning good deeds. Mr. Fanning's paper took such an interest in my little boy that it printed long columns about him, and then Mr. Fanning had the man who injured my boy put in jail, and then he sent him flowers — beautiful roses, the ones he was buried with—and Mr. Fanning even bought the coffin with his own money. When I told him not to do that, he laughed and said that was nothing—he could afford it."

"So," mused the lady reporter, as she walked away, "Fanning has spent all his hard earned savings on the flowers and coffin. He's a dear, good boy."—Omaha Herald.

Always Room For "Isers."

"The kind of men I want to hire," said a newspaper publisher the other day while talking to a friend, "are seldom to be had. No matter what their lines of business 'isers' (a word that rhymes with scissors) are never out of work and always get good money. I want some isers."

"Isers?" exclaimed his companion. "What on earth are isers?"

"To explain what they are," replied the publisher, "let me tell you a story of a 'want ad.' Once a man wished to employ for his circus an acrobat who could throw triple somersaults. So he put a 'want ad.' in the paper. In reply to the advertisement he received 50 letters. Together with a friend he read them over. Some of the letters he put in a pile by themselves. They were the ones that read something like this:

"'DEAR SIR—You advertise for a man who can throw a triple somersault. I used to throw triple somersaults and think that after a little practice I could do it again. I'd like a trial.

"The other letters were put in another pile and ran something like this:

"'DEAR SIR—I am a good acrobat; but, while I never have thrown triple somersaults, I think with a little practice I could do it. I'd like to have a trial.'

"'Well,' said the circus man, as he shook his head sadly, 'there are 50 letters from 50 acrobats. Twenty-five of them are "has beens," 25 are "going to bes," but there ain't an "iser" in the whole lot.' Now, I want 'isers,' and so does every other business man, but they are all employed."—New York Tribune.

Mistaken Kindness.

One of the first resolutions which are formed by men and women who are succeeding in life, that is, as measured by the only standards in use nowadays, increasing their possessions far beyond their actual needs, is that they will put safeguards around their children; the hardships which they themselves contended against shall never, if they can help it, be encountered by their offspring. They not only coddle themselves, indulge themselves with unaccustomed luxuries and spare themselves all avoidable physical exertion, but they believe this course to be the right way to live, and that if it is good for them, it is good for their children. They do not understand that character is formed under the pressure of the compulsory hardships and self denials of youth, just as they forget that health is not a gift or an accident, but the reward of abstinence and of hard work under natural conditions, perhaps continued through several generations.—Frederick Tudor.

First Electric Light In a Theater.

It is believed that the first electric light installed in an American theater was a Jablochkoff candle, used as a focusing lamp in the old California theater, in Bush street, San Francisco, in 1878. The managers of the theater at that time were Messrs. Barton & Hill, General Barton and Frank Lawler. The play was "Antony and Cleopatra," Rose Eytinge and Cyril Searle taking the leading parts. Mr. A. H. Reece was the engineer in charge of the work.

Time has worked a complete revolution in theatrical lighting, and today there is not a theater in the United States which could dispense with the electric light.—Electricity.

Too Precocious Child.

A South Side architect has a small son who is very bright. The youngster's latest fad is punching colored paper with the fancy shape steel punches conductors use. The architect had just finished a series of blue paper drawings which represented many days' labor, and the next morning went cheerfully to get them from his study. He never got farther than the door, for on the floor sat his son and heir in a floating sea of blue paper stars, crosses and crescents.

"Ain't they pretty?" calmly remarked the infant. "I'se just finishing the last sheet. Want some more."

He did not get more. He received something else.—Chicago News.

It Stops the Crying.

To keep babies from crying an ingenious device is resorted to in India. The moment a child begins to cry the mother places her hand over its mouth and nips its nose so that it cannot breathe. Then it is allowed to breathe freely again, but should it make use of the opportunity to again set up a howl it is at once suppressed in the same way. This is repeated till the baby imagines that the painful stoppage of the breath is caused by its own effort to scream, and so is careful to keep quiet. It is needless to say that this method will scarcely be adopted by doting American mothers.—Philadelphia Ledger.

On the Bargain Counter.

"You say, then, that this material is the latest fashion?"

"The very latest, madam."

"But will it fade in the sun?"

"Why, it has been lying in the window for two years, and look how well it has stood!"—Boston Traveller.

THEIR WORK IS DONE

The Republican State Convention has met and adjourned, and its action is now before the people, and, by the majority, the business transacted at Sacramento will be acceptable. The endorsement of Wm. McKinley, of Ohio, for President, is more than satisfactory to the people of the State of California, and the platform which was adopted is one that any Republican can endorse with pleasure.

We think that every man, woman and child in the State should carefully read this platform. Consequently we publish it below in its entirety.

The Republican party of the State of California, in convention assembled at Sacramento, on the 5th day of May 1896, hereby adopts the following platform:

Resolved, That this convention favors the proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of California, whereby it is sought to extend the elective franchise to all citizens of the United States, both men and women.

That we indorse the course of Hon. George C. Perkins in the United States Senate in behalf of the people of the State of California and their varied interests.

We indorse the work of the National League and the efforts of the young men of our party to make it a potent factor in prosecuting a vigorous and successful campaign in this State.

We favor the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and the making of silver as well as gold a legal tender in payment of all debts, both public and private.

Realizing that good roads are a necessary element in advancing the prosperity of any community, and recognizing the practically universal demand for the same, not only in our State but through out the United States, the Republican party of California pledges itself to the enactment of legislation looking toward improved and scientifically constructed highways on the most economical basis.

We demand such National legislation on the subject of foreign immigration as will effectually keep out of the country all contract laborers, criminals, paupers, diseased persons and the classes whose presence and teachings are calculated to disturb social peace and order, or are inimical to the best interests of this country, and such changes in the naturalization laws and enforcement as will prevent unfit foreign-born persons from becoming citizens of this republic.

Our prisons and asylums contain many people not citizens of the United States. We believe that every nation should care and provide for its own demented and criminal class, and that all future treaties and conventions with other nations should provide for such a reciprocal deportation of such classes as would, in time, make each nation care and provide for its own, and at its own expense of deportation.

We hartily recognize the right to establish schools through private enterprise, but we demand that but nonsectarian, free, public schools shall receive public aid.

We heartily indorse the proposition that the farmer of the nation, by whose labor the staple agricultural products of the country are brought to market, should receive a just measure of protection for himself, his labor and his products; inasmuch as the price of these products is regulated by the amount paid for them in the world's market, debtors lose the cost of transportation from the place of production to such centers, and as owing to the great development of staple agricultural products in many of the cheapest labor countries of the world the prices realized by our farmers have of late been unremunerative, it is our duty to endeavor to change this state of affairs, hence we approve of the plan that the Government of the United States should reduce the cost of transporting these staple agricultural products from American seaports to foreign seaports, to the end that the prices of these products should be advanced; and for that purpose, inasmuch as an export can be protected in no other manner, we pronounce ourselves in favor of the use of a limited portion of the receipts of the United States customs for such purposes, and pledge our most earnest efforts to have this measure engrafted upon the laws of the land, to the end that the American protective system shall benefit all classes of the people, aid the farmer against the oppressive competition of the cheap-labor countries of the world, and by so doing assist in maintaining that steady demand for labor in manufacturing centers so essential to the welfare of our country.

The Republican party of California is pledged to such legislation as will thoroughly protect the dairy interests and the public from imposition in the sale of dairy products.

The miners of California, with their annual output of many millions of dollars, have been our financial bulwark in times of adversity; they maintained the national credit during the dark days of the rebellion, and they form the basis upon which the grandest of commonwealths, California, has been reared. The mining industry of our State should receive such aid and protection as will insure its permanency and prosperity, and for that purpose we favor such aid and protection as will relieve the miner from unnecessary burdens, enable him to obtain and develop his mining property, and will promote and encourage the business of all kinds of mining, including that known as "hydraulic mining," whenever and wherever the same can be carried on without injury to the other interests in the State.

We believe a revision of the tariff laws up on the basis of the American protective system to be the foremost of National legislation, and have full confidence in the National Convention soon to assemble to deal more fully with this question. We condemn the policy of the Democratic party for the last four years, resulting, as it has, in destroying every barrier to American protection, and charge that policy with the responsibility of degrading labor and impoverishing every interest dear to the American people. We believe that we should live under the banner calculated to give us the most protection in weakness and in strength, which exalts life and promotes human happiness, and that such system rests upon the basis of American protective tariff as advocated by James G. Blaine and William McKinley.

We commend the course of our Representatives in Congress in opposing the proposed funding schemes of the Pacific railroad companies, and it is our opinion that those companies should be compelled to settle their indebtedness in some reasonable or business-like way, or that the Government shall foreclose its liens upon and take possession of the properties.

Resolved, That the Republicans of California, while recognizing the earnest worth and fitness of each of the distinguished statesmen of their party whose names have been mentioned as aspirants for the Presidential nomination at St. Louis, and while pledging in advance the electoral vote of the Golden State to the Republican nominee whoever he may be, hereby declare that the emphatic sentiment of California is in favor of the nomination of that wise and able statesman; that pure and unsullied patriot; that true and loyal American; that peerless champion of protection, William McKinley of Ohio, and the delegates from this State are hereby directed and instructed to work and vote for the success of said William McKinley as long as there is a reasonable prospect of his nomination.

A Dog Story.

When the guest of the Rev. Edward H. Ingle in Roanoke, Va., I was asked by Mr. Ingle to make the experiment whether I could bring into my conversation with him the word "holes" without its being curiously noticed by his dog. I tried it more than once, not emphasizing the word or making it louder than any other words. The first time the word "holes" reached his ear the dog looked toward me with an expression of apprehension. The second time he rose, curled his tail between his legs, and stood watchful, as if to know whether he was to be further disturbed. The third time he left the room with unmistakable demonstrations of alarm and shame. Mr. Ingle told me, as the only explanation he could give, that the dog had dug holes in the grass on the lawn and had been sharply reproved and scolded for it, but never punished otherwise.

We have a dog which will do the same thing, for precisely the same reason, on hearing the word "ducks." The little wretch killed a tame duck and was verbally flagellated.—London Spectator.

Wanted to Punch Her.

The curly haired, mild little woman at the cashier's desk in a Park row beanery renowned for its piety as well as its beans glared fiercely at a demure waitress standing by the draw one counter and called out, with seeming viciousness in her tone:

"Sixteen, come over here till I punch you!"

"I have been punched once," pleaded Sixteen with a pout that seemed to the surprised man who was paying his check to threaten tears.

"Well," said the cashier imperiously, "come over here till I punch you again. I didn't punch you good."

Sixteen tripped over to the onyx pulpit and handed her checkbook to the cashier, who figured up the stubs and then punched an O. K. hole in the book.

"Tell all the other girls to come up and let me punch 'em again," said the cashier to Sixteen.

And the man paid for his "one in milk," heaved a sigh of relief at the amicable closing of the incident and wondered afresh at the oddities of beanery English.—New York Sun.

New Use For Blotters.

The clerk at the drug store noticed that the lady he was waiting upon had had her attention attracted by some blotters bearing an advertisement. So he wrapped a couple of them around the lady's purchase. The proprietor of the establishment was not a little surprised about a week later to receive a letter from the lady saying that she had worn those blotters on her chest constantly, and she was pleased to say that a soreness in the lungs from which she had suffered for years had entirely disappeared.—Boston Transcript.

A Friendly Hint.

The small cigar cutters generally seen in tobacco stores seem to exercise a strange fascination over some people. It seems that few people can stand near one of these machines without playing with it, and sometimes there is a finger cut. A dealer has a clever scheme by which to obviate this danger. A small sign upon the cutter reads, "For cigars, not fingers."—Exchange.

One of His Awful Experiences.

"Awful experiences? Yes," said the tramp as he sat at a Holland street kitchen table and cut into the second piece of custard pie.

"I was sleeping soundly in a box car out in Iowa one night last summer, and the wind was blowing like thunder across the plains. Suddenly the car got loose, the brakes broke or something, and it began to crawl along out of the siding and on to the main track. It was nuts for me. I thought the wind wouldn't blow me far, and so I kept on. I stood in the door and saw the houses and fences go by faster and faster, till all of a sudden I realized I was going too fast to get off, and no way of stopping it. Half an hour after we—the car and I—dashed through a little station, and I had just time to see the telegraph operator run out and look after us and then run back to telegraph down the line to clear the track. We were going more than a mile a minute, and my hair was standing on end. Forty miles down the line we went through another station, and on a siding I [illegible] rope on the cowcatcher. That engine chased us 20 miles down the track. The man with the rope threw it around the brake wheel on top of our car and gradually stopped it, while all the time the wind was blowing a gale.

"We had just got headed back toward the depot when an express train showed up where we should have met it ker-chunk—that's good pie." And he took another piece.—Lewiston Journal.

How Sidewalks Are Calked.

A New Yorker who when a boy was accustomed to frequent shipyards and watch the construction of fine clipper ships was astonished as he neared Wall street, when walking down Broadway, to hear the familiar sounds made by a hammer and maul ringing out on the air. It was a welcome sound and brought to mind a flood of recollections of his boyhood.

On investigating the cause of the sound, he was somewhat surprised to discover a ship calker sitting on the pavement carefully calking the cracks between the flagstones of the sidewalk with oakum, while another man followed with a pot of tar. Inquiry brought out the information that it was necessary to make the sidewalk waterproof, owing to the vaults which extended out under the pavement. At certain periods the cracks must be recalked, and the operation is quite an expensive one. The trade of ship calking, like many other things, is not enjoying the most prosperous time in its history.

The decline of wooden ships, brought about by the demand for those of iron and steel, has caused many calkers to turn to other trades for work.—New York Times.
